Crossing the Street tells the story of San Francisco's Portola District in a collection of handmade interactive books and an exhibition at the Portola Branch Library. As a city resident, have you pondered earlier residents who saw the same skies, walked the same streets, even mounted the same stairs as they came home? Come to the Portola Branch Library and participate in Crossing the Street, created by Portola artists Kate Connell and Oscar Melara with the San Francisco Public Library. Read graphic novels, page through an atlas that describes the Portola's fascinating history, then take home coloring sheets or postcards to tell us your own story! Crossing the Street is by, for and about the Portola!
